Re:     *United States v. Antonio Olmeda, 13 Cr. 626 (RMB)

Dear Judge Berman:

The Government respectfully writes to address several issues relating to the sentencing scheduled for September 24, 2015.

First, at the proceeding on September 8, 2015, the Court found that a four-point enhancement was warranted under Section 2K2.1(b)(6)(B) of the United States Sentencing Guidelines (“U.S.S.G.” or the “Guidelines”) because the Court found, by a preponderance of the evidence, that the defendant used or possessed a firearm in connection with another felony offense. Following that finding, the Court concluded that, as a result of that enhancement, the offense level was 33, resulting (with a Criminal History Category of III) in a Guidelines range of 168 to 210 months’ imprisonment. (See Sept. 8, 2015 Tr. at 8). Insofar as the Court’s calculation reflected the applicable offense level prior to a three-point reduction in the offense level for acceptance of responsibility, see U.S.S.G. § 3E1.1, the Government agrees with the Court’s calculation. Assuming the defendant clearly demonstrates acceptance of responsibility through the imposition of his sentence, however, the Government believes that such a reduction will apply, resulting in an offense level of 30 and a Guidelines range of 121 to 151 months’ imprisonment.

Second, although the Government agrees that the total offense level (prior to a reduction for acceptance of responsibility) is 33, the Government seeks to clarify its position as to certain provisions listed in Section 2K2.1. As the Court noted at the initial sentencing proceeding on May 21, 2015, the base offense level, under U.S.S.G. § 2K2.1(a)(3), is 22. However, the Court found at the May 21 proceeding that a six-level increase in the offense level was warranted under U.S.S.G. § 2K2.1(b)(1)(C) because the offense involved 25 to 99 firearms. The Government respectfully submits that U.S.S.G. § 2K2.1(b)(1)(B), and not § 2K2.1(b)(1)(C), applies, because the offense involved 8 to 24 firearms. Specifically, the Government believes that approximately 22 firearms were involved in the offense (i.e., two firearms recovered on December 19, 2011 at the time of the defendant's arrest; four firearms recovered pursuant to a search of the defendant's residence on or about December 19, 2011; and sixteen firearms recovered from the defendant's storage locker in Yonkers, New York on or about September 6, 2012).<sup>1</sup> Because in this case the cumulative offense level determined from the application of subsections (b)(1) through (b)(4) of U.S.S.G. § 2K2.1 may not exceed 29, see U.S.S.G. § 2K2.1(b), this does not change the Guidelines calculation.

Third, the defendant has previously alleged that the Government has not submitted "documentary proof" in support of the position that a four-level increase under U.S.S.G. § 2K2.1(b)(4)(B) is warranted because at least one firearm had an altered or obliterated serial number. (See July 1, 2015 Def. Sent. Mem., at 2). Both the U.S. Probation Office and the Court previously (and correctly) concluded that U.S.S.G. § 2K2.1(b)(4)(B) does apply. Such a finding is supported by the fact that at least one of the firearms found in the defendant's storage locker on September 6, 2012 contained an obliterated serial number, as evidenced by numerous sources in the discovery that was previously provided to the defendant. For the Court's convenience and to complete the record at sentencing, the Government has attached, as Exhibit A to this letter, a subset of the law enforcement reports reflecting the obliterated serial number.

Finally, with regard to his Criminal History Category, the defendant has objected to the addition of three points for his November 2, 1995 conviction for criminal possession of a dangerous weapon. As set forth in the PSR, that offense involved his possession of a flame thrower, 18 pipe bombs, seven cans containing black powder, 1,100 rounds of ammunition, an Uzi machine gun, a sawed-off shotgun, a silencer, and several boxes of ammunition for the Uzi. (PSR ¶ 43). According to the defendant, this offense should not be counted in the calculation of his Criminal History Category because it occurred more than 15 years prior to his commencement of the instant offense. (See July 1, 2015 Def. Sent. Mem., at 2; U.S.S.G. § 4A1.2(e)). As the Court previously concluded, however, the 1995 conviction was appropriately included. The defendant was convicted on November 2, 1995 and sentenced to two-to-six years' imprisonment. He was not paroled until October 23, 1998, and his sentence was not discharged until October 25, 2000. Because the defendant was imprisoned for the offense until at least October 23, 1998, within 15 years of the commencement of the instant offense in December 2011, the prior offense was appropriately included in the calculation of the defendant's Criminal History Category. See U.S.S.G. § 4A1.2(e) ("Also count any prior sentence of imprisonment exceeding one year and one month, whenever imposed, that resulted in the defendant being incarcerated during any part of such fifteen-year period.").

In sum, for the reasons set forth above, and for the reasons previously stated on the record, the Government respectfully submits that the applicable offense level (assuming the defendant's demonstration of acceptance of responsibility through sentencing) is 30 and the applicable Criminal History Category is III, resulting in a Guidelines range of 121 to 151 months' imprisonment. As previously set forth in the Government's March 25, 2015 sentencing

<sup>1</sup> The Government notified the U.S. Probation Office of its view that U.S.S.G. § 2K2.1(b)(1)(B), and not § 2K2.1(b)(1)(C), applies. It is the Government's understanding that the U.S. Probation Office now agrees with the Government's position and will be issuing an amendment to the presentence investigation report ("PSR").

memorandum, the Government submits that a sentence above the Guidelines range is appropriate given the particularly serious nature of the offense, the need for adequate deterrence, and the need to protect the public from further crimes of the defendant. The recent Fatico hearing only served to underscore the harm that the defendant has caused in the past and the threat that he poses to the public. Specifically, the defendant's shooting at two police officers (which resulted in bullet fragments penetrating a pediatric dental office), his highly suspicious conduct surrounding his armed possession of the list of names of two lawyers and a judge, whom he appears to have been prepared to kill; his possession of a Last Will and Testament and his purchase of a cemetery plot; and the nature of the items he possessed in his car, his home, and his storage locker (which included not only an arsenal of high-powered weapons, but disguises, body armor and combat gear (e.g., gas masks, bullet proof vests, etc.), false law enforcement credentials, city maps, and other highly suspicious items), all demonstrate the exceptional seriousness of the defendant's conduct in comparison to other gun possession cases. Combined with the defendant's disturbing criminal history and the failure of past sentences to deter the defendant from further criminal conduct, a substantial sentence above the Guidelines range is warranted.

Respectfully submitted,

ENTRY INFORMATION AND INTERPRETATION OF CORRELATION

Exhibits 1, 4 through 8, 10, 11, 13, 15, 17, 19, 20, 22 and 23 were test fired. The test fired specimens were designated as 1-T1, 1-T2, 4-T1 and 4-T2 through 8-T1 and 8-T2, 10-T1, 10-T2, 11-T1, 11-T2, 13-T1, 13-T2, 15-T1, 15-T2, 17-T1, 17-T2, 19-T1, 19-T2, 20-T1, 20-T2, 22-T1, 22-T2, 23-T1 and 23-T2.

The Exhibits 1-T1, 4-T1, 5-T1, 6-T1 cartridge cases, the Exhibit 7-T1 shotshell case and the Exhibits 8-T1, 10-T1, 11-T1, 13-T1, 15-T1, 19-T1, 20-T1, 22-T1 and 23-T1 bullets and cartridge cases were entered into the Integrated Ballistics Identification System (IBIS). A correlation of the Regions 4 and 4A databases, to include New York State and New York City, was initiated. The correlation did not reveal any candidates for comparison. These images will be retained in the system for future comparative purposes. You will be notified if a high confidence candidate is confirmed.

Exhibit 3 is a rifle receiver and therefore could not be test fired.

Exhibit 17 cartridge cases do not meet the acquisition criteria for IBIS entry, and Exhibit 17 bullets have land engraved areas not suitable for IBIS entry.
